Professor Fiona Verity

What is being evaluated

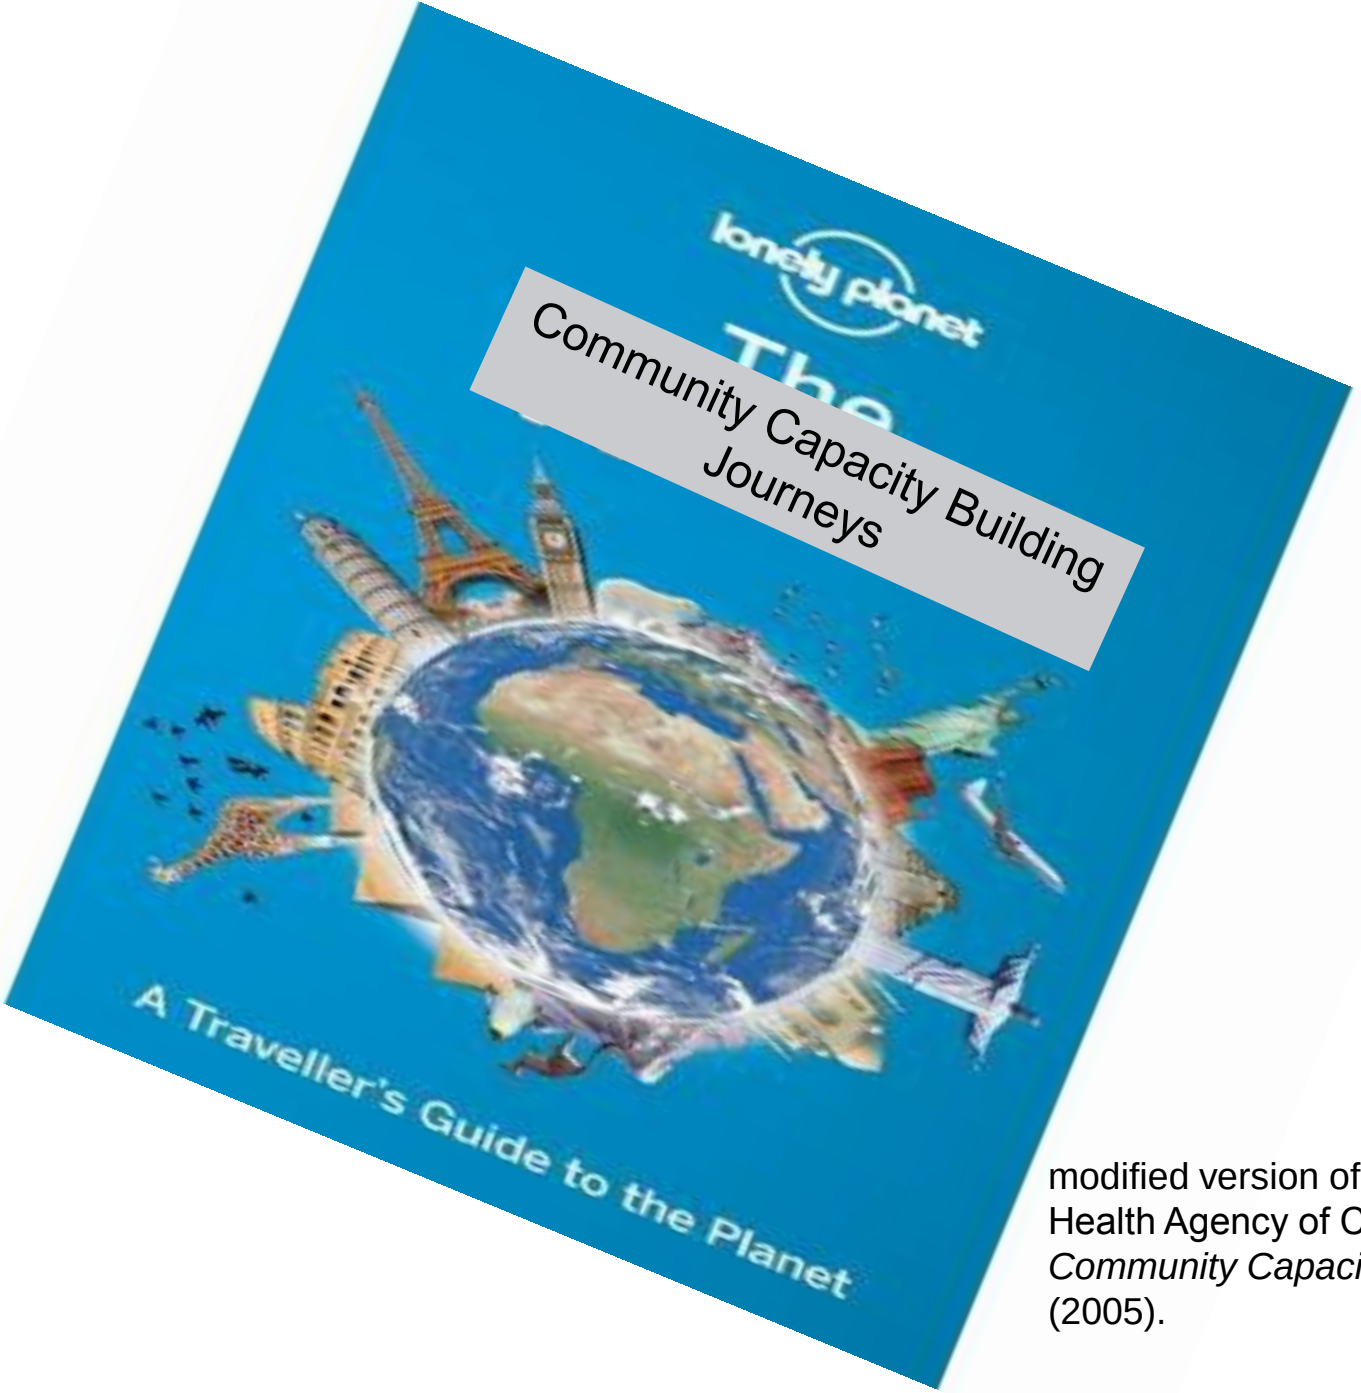
- OPALs contributions to locality based community capacity building;
- Understanding more about the community development approach OPAL has taken and what has resulted from this approach.

Capacity Building

- It is a process as well as an outcome; it includes supportive organisational structures and processes; it is multi-dimensional and ecological in operating at the individual, group, organisational, community and policy levels; and it is context specific. (Goodman et al, 1998:260)

Skills and abilities	Resources	Knowledge	Institutional practices	Linking

Time →



Community Capacity Building Journeys

modified version of the Public Health Agency of Canada's Community Capacity Building Tool (2005).